

Parent Support Philosophy

Kids' Corner is not a cooperative. Although parents are not required to put in classroom time or regular hours of service, parent involvement and support are essential to the program's philosophy and goals.

Through the parent Board, parents determine actual program direction, thus ensuring that their children have the kind of experience they, collectively, desire for them. Occasional help from parents at large and regular support from the Board free the staff to concentrate on implementing the parents' goals for the programs and serving the needs of the children. Support of this nature also helps keep the administrative costs of the program down.

The program belongs to you, the parents, and your children. Your cooperation, constructive input, and contribution-- large and small -- help determine its success.
